

JOSLYN ART MUSEUM SOCIAL NARRATIVE

Today I am going to visit The Joslyn, where I will see and experience art.

The Joslyn is accessible on foot or via car, bike, or bus.

By car, access the Main Entrance on the north side from James Fous Avenue or to the south from Dodge Street.

By bike, racks are available (I must supply my own lock); helmets may be stowed in free lockers near the Welcome Desk.

By bus, Metro Transit's 24th & Dodge ORBT Station NW is just steps west of the Museum.

Next, I will check in at the Welcome Desk located in the Hawks Pavilion. I may need to wait in line, and it could be crowded.

I will be asked by a Visitor Experience Ambassador what my zip code is and I will be reminded of some rules for visitors.

At the Welcome Desk, I can get a Museum map. I also can borrow a sensory kit and other resources to help me enjoy the art.

If I have a large bag, backpack, or coat, I can leave them in a locker near the Welcome Desk.

I may see Museum staff members with a gray and pink lanyard.
They can answer questions I have and help me find my way.

In the Museum, I may see some signs that will remind me not to touch the art, or if I can eat or drink in a space.

To help protect the art, I will not touch it or get too close to it. There will be a Visitor Experience Ambassador in the galleries, and they will let me know if I am getting too close to the art.

I can use the elevators or the stairs to access different levels of the Museum.

In the Media Gallery, I can see a film installation. It is a dark room that may get loud/be suddenly loud. I can cover my ears when I walk by or borrow headphones at the Welcome Desk.

If I get hungry, I can go to The Cafe in the Scott Pavilion to buy food. I will see a large sculpture hanging from the ceiling.

If I get tired or overwhelmed, I can rest in the Founders Room. This space is quiet, less busy, and I can sit on the furniture. I will find it on the Gallery Level in the Joslyn Building, between the Galleries J5 and J6.

If the weather is nice, I also can walk outside in the Sculpture Garden. I will see art and many plants and trees.

When it's time to leave the Museum, I will exit from the Main Entrance, by the Welcome Desk, where I started my visit.
